Now
With F.M.I.

Five of the six young men who met with the Cameron Independent School Board last week signed a letter to this writer.

Its content was complimentary, probably because we acknowledged their maturity in going before the board with a stated objection to a policy on hair length. They got an opportunity to provide an alternative, and we told these youngsters we would print their alternative, just like the Board would consider it.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Their position and "stand," apparently important everywhere to young people, is as mature if not maturer than some of the comments on that stand or on questioniing an individual parent's right to ask about teaching quality in his child's classroom.

Some of the comment is misguided. Some of it is gross, mainly by people who weren't there.

Almost to flaunt the example these kids are asked to follow in mature questioning, there is a time when channels no longer provide the means, the vehicle to follow.

A parent does have the right to go before any school body when the chain of command bogs down to inaction or dissatisfaction.

Board members themselves acknowledge this. And this contradiction in example for young people is an example of maturity. Things are not packaged in manuals, totally, for people to live by. Things are not that simple and any attempt to reduce a question beyond two or more alternatives, where pure "good and evil" fails to attach, is dishonest.

The real question is whether protestors stand for their actions. These youngsters stood, and were heard, and their maturity was acknowledged. A school patron stood, was heard and acknowledged. Both are examples of maturity, mainly because they stand.

NOW-NOW-NOW

The Yoe High School baseball program is getting underway this spring, slowly, starting with practices and a quest by coach Ernie Laurence for assistance for team uniforms.

There will be no competition under UIL districting this first year, he said. Baseball, once a part of the YHS sports program, is being returned to major sport status after about six or seven years.

Although sports may be expected to pay their way, it is really asking a lot for a team which will represent Yoe High School, whether this year or next, to seek finance to buy uniforms. This can be done through Booster Club activities, we suppose, but it suggests baseball, as it must wait until after the track season, is somehow a minor sport.

This, of course, is not the case, particularly in view of the 10-year emphasis on summer baseball in Minor, Little and Babe Ruth summer baseball programs, involving 300 or more boys each summer. There is latent talent for the YHS program.

Basketball has come of age in Cameron because of fine coaching and a "do or die" spirit of 12 boys who played the game this year.

New tennis court and availability of a good nine-hole course for practice at Cameron Country Club make spring sports of all kinds, track, baseball, golf and tennis a realizable reality in Cameron.

We should be proud of all these opportunities, alternatives if you will. It gives the athlete with special talents a place to show his stuff. Only a few athletes are gifted enough to play all sports.

KATACOMB CLUB SETS TEEN DANCE

The Katacomb Teen Club will sponsor a dance on Saturday, March 28 in the teen center at 102 West First Street in Cameron.

"The Age of Innocence," a local group, will provide music for the dance, which will start at 8 and end at 12.

Admission will be $1.25.

RURAL SIGHT - Trash near Elm Creek bridge on county road north of Cameron remains in ugly piles even after flooding creek waters wash some of the junk away. Discarded furniture, tires, clothes, rugs, plus the usual cans, paper and bottles add to a chronic headache for County Commissioners in this and other spots in Milam County.

Roads, Streams Used . . .
Illegal Dumpers Warned

A chronic problem of trash, garbage and other refuse dumped along Milam County roads continues to plague County Commissioners, who report increasing complaints from rural residents.

Offenders are reminded that the illegal dumping on or within 300 yards of any highway or public road in Texas carries a fine of from $10 to $200.

The big problem is enforcing the law, Judge O. B. Harden said the Commissioners Court is not a law enforcement body, and people won't file complaints against offenders, even when they claim they know who's doing the dumping.

Judge Harden said almost every stream in the county is congested with trash and refuse dumped in them.

Farmers in the Burlington area in particular are complaining about refuse dumped in Pond Creek washing up into fields, and damaging equipment.

Residents have complained about dumping of trash on private roads leading to their places, usually on the outskrits of cities and in rural areas.

The County has offered to buy land in each precinct for use as official dumps, Judge Harden said, but no one seems to want a dump near their property. The County does maintain one area at Buckholts as official dump grounds.

Rural residents can request the Commissioners assistance for garbage and trash burial, Harden added.

All residents of the County are asked to cooperate in the effort to stop the illegal trash dumping, which is turning Milam County's roadsides and streams into ugly sites.

The Texas Highway Department is fighting the litter battle in various ways. School children are introduced to the anti-litter campaign by taking part in a poster contest sponsored by the Highway Department and Cameron schools.

The posters were put on display this week in downtown businesses and will be judged, the first place winners receiving plaques made by the Highway Department.

State officials estimate $2 million dollars is spent each year to pick up trash along State highways.

PO Patrons Asked To Hold Mail

Cameron postal patrons are asked to hold on to their mail addressed to areas affected by the postal workers' strike until notification by the Post Office.

The strike, which began at midnight Tuesday in New York and spread quickly to New Jersey, was affecting Connecticut and some Midwestern states by Friday.

New York letter carriers were scheduled to vote Saturday on whether to end the first such walkout in the 161-year history of the U. S. Post Office Department.

Cameron Postmaster N. L. Caperton issued a news release on Wednesday, announcing an embargo on mail of all classes for delivery in Zip code areas 100 through 104 and 110 through 119.

The areas include New York City, New York, Bronx, Brooklyn, Flushing, Far Rockaway and River Mead, New York.

Caperton said mail dropped in the local post office is being held in the office vault, but "we prefer that patrons hold their mail for security reasons."

He said the Cameron Post Office will postmark and hold mail for patrons who must meet a payment deadline with firms in the areas under the embargo, however, companies are expected to make allowances for the mail halt.

Local effects of the strike are being felt mostly by banks, Caperton said.

Scarmado Trial Resumes Monday

Pete Thomas Scarmado, 31, of Hearne, on trial charge as an accomplice in the 1968 death of Sam Degelia, Jr., has testified Texas Rangers and a Houston polygraph operator conspired a "frame."

The trial resumes Monday.

The Edinburg, Tex., trial continues after weeks of testimony on the 1968 slaying of Degelia, Scarmado's former business partner.

Scarmado, a Central Texas cotton broker, is being tried after indictment charging he offered a Houston man $2,000 to kill Degelia.

Testimony on the alleged "frame" came during cross-examination by the district attorney. Scarmado was on the stand when the case was recessed for the weekend mid-Friday afternoon.

Cameron Lawns Suffer 'Decline'

San Augustine Decline, latest label given to a grass disease that is attacking lawns in the Cameron area, is going to mean extra work for homeowners this spring.

Characterized by a mottled yellow discoloration on grass leaves, the virus may be carried from law to lawn by grass cutters or mowers.

In an interview this week, County Agent J. C. Moore said several lawns in Cameron are being plowed up because of disease. One lawn at 600 N. Central has been completely cleared and will be replanted in bermuda grass.

Moore estimated that 90 percent of the yards in Cameron have been planted with San Augustine grass over the past 30 years. He said it has been more popular than bermuda because it will grow in shade and is hardy against weeds.

Moore said Texas Department of Agriculture authorities are considering a quarantine on San Augustine grass because of blight epidemics in several state areas, particularly in the lower Rio Grande Valley and along the Coastal Bend.

He said the best defense against lawn diseases, including Brown Patch, Fade Out and San Augustine Decline, is to follow these basic principles:

Select grasses adapted to the soil, climate and light conditions;

Control weeds and insects;
Do not over water;
Keep the grass cut and relatively free of clippings.

Moore suggested that homeowners not become a slave to a futile task. "If the lawn is badly diseased, have it dug up and re-plant," he said.

Moore said another lawn problem prevelent in this area is grass turning yellow because of lack of iron in clay soils.

Moore is testing a new product, Medina, which he said is a soil activator. It contains .5 percent magnesium, .1 percent iron, .05 percent zinc and a 2 percent reactor. He has applied it to part of his lawn at 102 E. 12th St. at a rate of 1 pint of Medina to 1,000 sq. feet of lawn in 12 gallons of water. He said it should be showing results next month.

LAWN EXPERIMENT - J. D. Moore, Milam County Agent, used his yard at 102 W. 12th St. as a demonstration for Medina, a soil activator. Results are expected to be evident in one month on the treated area.

Milam Sees Oil Activity

New Well Scheduled Near Milano

By Lloyd Albertson

The Milano area of Milam County had a new wildcat scheduled early this week, and potential test figures were filed on another wildcat which was brought in as a producer about the first of the year.

The new wildcat will be drilled by W. M. Gallaway, a Farmington, New Mexico operator. It will be his No. 1 A. E. Bonorden; location is on a 411 acre lease in Mariano Moro Survey. Drillsite will be about 3,000 feet southeast of Highway 79 and the Missouri Pacific Railroad line.

The Bonorden is permitted to 4,000 feet and has the basal Wilcox as its objective. It will be an attempt to extend the Milbur Field, located about eight miles to the southwest, in that direction. The Milbur Field has good production in the Wilcox formation.

Gallaway's new wildcat will be the second test to be drilled on the Bonorden acreage. In January, 1968, a Houston operator, Dick Schwab, scheduled a 3,500 foot wildcat, also with the basal Wilcox as its objective. B & B Drilling Company of Milano was the drilling contractor.

The test encountered delays from wet weather and was abandoned after reportedly being drilled to permit depth.

Last week potential test figures were filed by Dave M. Thomas for his No. 1 Coleman and Wallace Beard, showing it made 61.25 barrels per day of 38 gravity oil on pump. It produced on perforations at 3,045 - 055 feet in the Escondido.

Thomas, a Farmington, New Mexico, operator, drilled the No. 1 Beard about mid - December, 1969, and it was reported brought in as an oiler at that time, but there was no other information about it until potential figures were released.

The Beard is located on a 99 acre lease in James Welch Survey and about three - quarters of a mile southwest of the Cherokee Navarro Field. Drillsite is 3,750 feet south southwest of the Byron Rose No. 1 Ray Woods, discovery well that opened the field last October. It has been put in the Cherokee Navarro Field.

The Beard was scheduled as a Navarro Test. However, it produces from the Escondido, and is believed to be the first wildcat to find production in that formation in Milam County.

Thomas' new well raises to five the number of completions reported for the Cherokee Navarro Field. Three more new wildcats have been scheduled and drilling will get under way on them as soon as weather conditions permit.

National Honor For Yoe Senior

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has announced that Monty Humble, Yoe High School senior, has been named as a finalist in national competition.

Humble was winner of the Mu Alpha Theta math award in 1969, is a member of the National Honor Society and UIL debate team. He was a member of the casts of the Junior Class Play, the Senior Class Play and One Act Play.

He is a member of Interact Club, the Yoe High School golf team, and served as school photographer for the football team.

In addition to school activities, Humble is a volunteer tutor for disadvantaged students and works part-time as librarian for the Cameron Public Library.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Humble, Cameron, and grandson of Mrs. D. W. Maedgen of Troy and Mrs. Chester Atkins of Pasadena.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is a private corporation which gives 1,000 scholarships annually based on state quotas to outstanding students. Less than half of one percent of the graduating seniors in America are finalists each year.

National Merit Scholarship Corporation also grants 2,000 scholarships annually to children of employees of sponsoring corporations.

1-4 Million In Claims For Medicare

Milam Countians filed claims amounting to $252,911 for supplementary medical doctor bills under Medicare in 1968, according to a report from the Temple social security office.

Jack Calvert, district manager for the Temple office, said 2,635 persons in Milam County field claims in 1968, the last full year for which figures are complete.

Deadline for signing up for the supplementary medical insurance is March 31, 1970. This medical insurance part of Medicare is open to persons who are 65 or older and who were born after October 1, 1901.

Calvert said four of every five persons signed up for the supplementary medical doctor bill insurance under Medicare use services covered by the plan sometime during the year.

Eligible persons, through the payment of monthly premiums, pay half the cost of the insurance protection. The other half is paid by the government from general revenues -- not from the Social Security Trust Fund.

To Subscribe For Both Heralds . . .

104 Heralds cost just $5.50 if you live in Milam County -- $6.50 outside the county. If your present subscription is for the Thursday Herald only, you pay a pro-rata share of the balance on it, and add $2 for the Weekend Herald. Thus your subscription to both papers will be due on one date.

FOR EXAMPLE: If your Thursday Herald is paid to August, 1970, you pay an additional $2.05 and the $2 for the Weekend Herald, a total of $4.05. For out of the county the total would be $1 more. This pays your subscription up through February, 1970 for both papers.

COLYUM

There is no such word!

Column is the correct spelling --- KOL um is the correct pronunciation. It means, of course, a post or pillar, spial column, column of figures or a section of printed matter on a page; newspaper, magazine, etc.

COLUMNIST (KOL um nist), one who writes or conducts a column in a newspaper or periodical.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

The IMMORTAL
. . . and may we sing Hallelujah! For Christ the Lord is risen. The lilies are in bloom and men and angels are in jubilation.
Because He lives, we know we too shall live.
The Greeks were wrong.
Man is not mortal, but rather immortal.
For God hath set eternity in the heart of man.
This Easter, we share the immortality of Jesus Christ. His journey to Golgotha transfigured the cross forever, turning that symbol of suffering into a symbol of triumphant life.
Then let us live like women and men who expect to go on and on forever . . . world without end. This is indeed our true Christian hope. This is what Easter means to us today.

Workshop Paves Way For April Flower Show

Mrs. Leo Fuchs said it's a "do your own thing" world in flower arranging. A change from the former stern rules of accredited flower shows.

"We use to say use flowers only in odd numbers and not more than three kinds of material. Now the arranger is the judge, if it looks good the old rules don't count."

Mrs. Fuchs was guest speaker for a Fleur de lis Garden Club workshop on flower arranging. The workshop meeting was at the home of Mrs. William Kelm. Co-hostess was Mrs. Ed Magre.

Mrs. Fuchs cautioned club members to keep their flower arrangements simple and let the container determine the size and type of arrangement to be made.

During a business meeting Club members voted to have a special section for non-member exhibitors in the April 15 Spring Flower Show. The non-members exhibits will be limited to pot plants.

Club members also voted to have a bake sale in conjunction with the Flower Show.

Mrs. Durwood Cobb and Mrs. Bernay Dusek reported on arrangements for the spring show. Theme this year is "Flower Power." The show will be staged at Methodist Fellowship Hall from 3 to 6 p.m. April 15.

Coffee and desert were served to members and guests, Mrs. Leo Fuchs and Mrs. Eddie Macek, during the social hour.

Opera Workshop To Stage 'Macbeth' In Eastern Premiere

WACO

Paul Hume, music editor of the Washington Post, and Suzanne Bloch, daughter of composer Ernest Bloch, will be at Baylor University next month for what will be music history when the Baylor School of Music stages Bloch's opera, "Mac - beth."

The only opera by the Swiss-American composer, "Macbeth" will be performed by the Baylor Opera Workshop and Baylor Symphony Orchestra in Waco Hall on the Baylor campus. The premiere of the Baylor production will be April 23, with repeat performances on April 25, 28, 30 and May 2.

Miss Bloch, world - famous lutenist and member of the faculty of the Julliard School of Music in New York City, presently is working on a biography of her father.

Born in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1880, Bloch came to America in 1916. He died at the age of 78 in Portland, Ore.

Members of the Ernest Bloch Society, which has its head - quarters in Seattle, Wash., also are expected to attend performances of the opera, as will another of the composer's daughters, Lucienne.

'CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU' ON BAYLOR STAGE

WACO

A farcical comedy portraying the situation antics of a zany family, George S. Kaufman and Moss Mart's "You Can't Take It With You" is the upcoming production of the Baylor University Theater. The production will be staged March 17 through 21 in Baylor Theater on the Waco campus.

Bill Cook, assistant professor of oral communication and director of the Baylor Theater, is the director of "You Can't Take It With You."

Cook gave two reasons for selecting the play that is set in the 1930s and pits the establishment against the individual with whimsical family humor.

"I like this period of the 1930s and in the same sense, it has something of what people are thinking about today -- this do your own thing idea," he said.

INDIVIDUAL SERVING

Two food companies now are marketing individual servings of fruit and pudding items. These were developed because statistics showed that 20 million lunch bags are packed each week day for school children, workers, campers, etc.

Easter Dinner Tradition

Be it early or late, when it's Easter, it's time for ham. Yet this need not mean monotony since variety is readily attainable. Smoked ham comes in many styles and takes to a profusion of accompaniments. For a modern version of the traditional feast select a boneless ham easy to cook and carve. Glaze and garnish with a gay, spicy sauce.

Most boneless hams are fully cooked, according to Reba Staggs, meat expert of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Just heat ham to 130°F. and it's table ready.

Baked Smoked Boneless Ham

Place 5 to 8-pound boneless, "fully-cooked" ham on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until "fully-cooked" ham registers 130°F. Allow 15 minutes per pound.

For "cook-before-eating" ham, bake to 160°F., allowing 20 to 22 minutes per pound.

Mandarin Orange Sauce

Drain 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments and 1 can (8¼ ounces) grapes or pineapple tidbits, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Combine with ¾ cup orange juice and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon.

Yield: 2 cups.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I kept a record of my earnings and withholdings for the year and am all set to file my return. Do I have to wait until I get my W-2?

A) Yes, one copy of all W-2's must be attached to your tax return when you send it in. Processing of the returns and refunds are delayed if this is not done. You should receive your W-2 no later than February 2.

Note that this year, the W-2 should be stapled to the back of Form 1040 rather than the front.

Q) Is there any change in who has to file a return for 1969?

A) Filing requirements for 1969 Federal income tax returns are unchanged from last year.

To summarize them, a return must be filed by every person under 65 who had gross income of $600 or more for the year. For those 65 or older on the last day of tax year, a return does not have to be filed until gross income reaches $1,200.

Also, anyone who has net earnings of $400 or more from self-employment, is required to file a return and pay self-employment tax.

Filing requirements also apply to minors. A parent or guardian should file a return on behalf of a child who has gross income of $600 or more during the tax year. In every case, you must file a return to get any refund due.

Q) I'm a senior at college and I'm due a tax refund on some part-time work I did. Can I claim my own exemption without causing my father to lose the exemption he claims for me?

A) Yes, if you were a full-time student during some part of five months of the year, you can claim your own exemption and your father will not lose you as an exemption, so long as the necessary dependency tests are met. In this situation, the same exemption can be claimed on two returns, yours and your parent's.

Q) What taxes can I deduct?

A) If you itemize deductions, state and local income, sales, gasoline, personal property and real estate taxes may be deducted. These should be listed on Schedule A Itemized Deductions, and attached to your Form 1040.

Those who itemize will find that using the new Schedule A

STV Will End Blackout Of Home Sports Events

Washington — (HK) — The architect of the home game TV blackout is looking forward eagerly to the day soon when local sports teams will have their crowds and let thousands of Subscription Television viewers in on the action too.

Robert Hall, former chairman of the NCAA TV Committee, has told a congressional subcommittee that college and professional football will continue to use commercial TV as a gate builder for out of town games, but that subcription TV is the only way on the horizon that those unable to obtain tickets will ever be able to see home contests.

Hall, who pioneered the blackout for NCAA telecasts and then persuaded the late Bert Bell, then National Football League commissioner, to impose blackouts on NFL home telecasts as well, favors STV principally because of the greater exposure it will give sports.

Hall, who is now secretary, National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, outlined several circumstances in which STV might serve the TV sports fan better, among them:

—A great team overlooked by the NCAA TV schedules might be picked up for STV at midseason and shown without interfering with the college Game of the Week.

—Traditional rivalries or sports contests primarily of local interest could be shown to regional audiences though not on NCAA schedules. Examples would be Southern California-Stanford, Georgia-Alabama, Notre Dame-Ohio State, Penn State-Syracuse, or Texas-Oklahoma.

—Unscheduled games that would "decide" mythical national championships could be scheduled as the possibilities developed.

Under Federal Communications Commission rules governing STV, the new over-the-air subscription service will be able to televise sports events only if they have not been on commercial (free) TV within the preceding two years. "The rule would enable games of special and local interest to be seen by segments of the sports-minded public who now have no opportunity to see the games either live or on commercial TV," Hall explained.

Plan Is To Protect The Gate

As for lingering hopes that such games might eventually be offered anyway, Hall predicted: "The NCAA won't broaden its advertiser sponsor offerings because the reason for the NCAA plan and the pro football plan is to protect the gate."

"But they would like to extend that box-office and STV would enable them to do so," he added.

"There are many sports events that could be seen in the home for a small fee which are not now and in the foreseeable future will not be available on commercial TV," Mr. Hall said.

"I am sure that I am speaking for a majority of the sports world when I urge the support of the proposed FCC rules and regulations."

Life Crusade At Gospel Tabernacle

Cameron Gospel Tabernacle is holding a New Life Crusade with The Kings of Buffalo, New York, preaching and singing.

Rev. H. M. Bowley, Cameron Gospel Tabernacle pastor, said the services will continue through this week at 7:30 p.m. each night.

MEDICAL RECORD

A premature infant unit started by a CARE-MEDICO team doctor at the hospital in Gombak, Malaysia, ended its first year with a record of losing only 2 of 8 births weighing 3.5 lbs. or less. In all the hospital's previous years, only 1 baby under 3.5 lbs. had survived. The "preemies" are in a pediatric-maternity building that was also built with contributions to MEDICO, a service of CARE, New York 10016.

First tank to be used in battle was "Little Willie", which saw service in the battle of Flers in France on Sept. 15, 1916.

CAMERON'S PARADE OF SPORTS

REMEMBER 1916? TRACK

Captain of the Track Team in 1916 was Ben Baskin. He held the team together and practiced most of the time without a coach. During the county meet San Gabriel won the junior event while Cameron won the senior event. Barmore and Atkinson were the "stars" of the junior meet. Barmore holds the championship of Texas in the junior high jump, and Atkinson likely will win the pole vault. Cameron won the meet with 9 1st places and a number of 2nd and 3rd places. Burke was high man with 23 points and Plaster of Cameron was 2nd. The final score was Cameron 75, Thorndale 42, San Gabriel 1.

On Chain Letters . . .

PO Orders Crackdown

A startling 476 percent upsurge in unlawful chain letter activity has prompted Postmaster General Winton M. Blount to order a nationwide crackdown on those who conduct the scheme through the mails.

Chain letters are regarded as nonmailable under the postal lottery and fraud laws. They are considered to be fraudulent because of the unlikelihood the chain will remain unbroken and the participant will reap anything from his participation.

Chief Postal Inspector William J. Cotter revealed that the number of such schemes under investigation by his department leaped from 97 in August 1969 to 559 by the end of January 1970.

Cotter said the nationwide increase in chain letter activity primarily involves cash, but, from time to time, it will also use items such as United States Savings Bonds and Postal Money Orders.

"When and if anyone actually profits from chain letters," he said, "it is only those who are in on the ground floor. Later participants rarely, if ever, recoup their investments. Endless chains, as they are sometimes known, are not really endless. They progress with such rapidity that the number of prospects is soon exhausted and those investors who relied on the chain find themselves to be losers. As an example, a letter requiring a purchaser to sell or mail six copies to others with each of these selling six more, and so on, would theoretically reach the entire literate population of the earth if it were followed through only to the eleventh level."

In many cases, the promoter sets himself up to take all the profit.

"For example," Cotter said, "one of the most vicious chains recently uncovered was one using the bereaved families of soldiers killed in Vietnam as victims. In this scheme, the promoter posed as a grieving father himself and attempted to lure 100 families into a chain letter swindle where all proceeds were to be sent back to him under five aliases at different addresses. An additional 1,000 families were slated to be targets when the promoter was arrested and subsequently sentenced to three years in prison. The letters he actually mailed could have netted him more than $30,000 if he had been allowed to continue but prompt action by Postal Inspectors prevented any public loss."

The Department's Office of the General Counsel stressed that "even though some of the chain letters are transferred hand-to-hand and state 'Do Not Mail,' the schemes still violate the postal laws since the proceeds realized from such activities usually are mailed."

On the other hand, so-called chain letters which call for nothing more than recipes, picture post cards, and the like, are ordinarily considered to be mailable since the items sent do not constitute a thing of value within the meaning of the applicable law. However, postal cards involving "good luck" chain prayers containing a threat of bad luck to those breaking the chain are illegal under a law that prohibits the placement of threatening matter on the outside of mail.

Cotter cautioned the public especially to be alert for numerous chain letters currently being distributed which claim to have been reviewed by some legal authority and officially approved for mailing.

"This is not true," he said. He urged the receivers of all chain letters to "turn them over promptly to local postmasters or postal inspectors to avoid possible criminal involvement in the scheme and to assist the Post Office in its efforts to protect the public from this illegal activity."

Employees First, Then Patrons?

Assistant PM Henry Litzman, Jr., joshed a bit the other morning at the Cameron Post Office when he asked: "No one's on strike here, are they?"

He referred to the postal workers' walk out in New York, over a federal court injunction. President Nixon apparently was considering using the Army as an alternative system.

An embargo on mail delivery has established for any mail addressed to that area of the Northeast.

This is only the latest of strikes in the most populous of areas in the country.

Employees want a $8,500 minimum to about a $11,000 maximum for the whole nation. In New York, that minimum may be applicable. In much of the country, it would pay postal employees more than numerous people, including the beleaguered teachers.

It is easy to see that this strike dramatizes the postal crisis: postal people need more money, and who doesn't? But an antiquated system of handling mail is breaking down. The system is a vast political network even Presidents find complicated, perhaps as complex as the State Department.

What happens when the new money is granted and then a good percentage of the personnel are reduced in number due to automation, particularly in the large cities?

This malherre about money is understandable, but is only symptomatic of the problems of the whole postal system, and that primarily metropolitan. Cameron, for instance, has only one mail connection in and one connection out to the Section Center, Temple, per day, other than a few stops to nearer offices.

The New York postal employees, from what we read and hear, may be only the first to go out. It would not surprise if New York postal patrons went out in the streets next.

Majority Speaks . . .

Variety, the "bible of show biz," recently reported that so-called "clean" films won the big audiences last year. The top money-making pictures of 1969 were "Funny Girl," "2001: A Space Odyssey" and "Oliver."

All were rated for General Audiences, none contained a single pornographic sequence.

We're not surprised, but for the record it should be noted that the "silent majority" also appears to be a wholesome majority.

In Case Of Storm . . . .

The vulnerability of Texas to the ravages of wind and hail has been painfully established--by such super destructive hurricanes as "Beulah" which, in 1967, caused $34 million in insured damage; by the statistical reality that tornadoes hit the Lone Star State far more frequently than any other, and by perhaps the most damaging hailstorm in U. S. history which caused some $24 million in insured loss at Amarillo last June.

From 1964 through 1968 alone, 636 tornadoes struck Texas, killing 22 persons, injuring 299 and causing damage in the hundreds of millions.

To help storm victims, the TIAA says, insurance adjusters will work overtime in an effort to settle claims promptly and fairly, with the hardship cases handled first. Often hundreds of additional adjusters are flown in from all parts of the nation to speed the investigation and processing of claims.

Texas Insurance Advisory Association, (TIAA) an Austin based organization of insurance companies who write about 85 per cent of the property insurance in Texas, list the following advice in case your property is damaged by storm.

*Notify your insurance agent, telling him the extent of your damage. He will report the loss to your insurance company and have an adjuster call on you.

*Make whatevery temporary repairs are necessary to prevent further damage by wind or rain. This should include boarding up or otherwise covering broken windows; covering holes in the roof and siding with temporary materials. Keep a record of the cost, if any, and provide the insurance adjuster with itemized bills.

*For your own protection, deal only with a reputable contractor in having temporary repairs made or obtaining a loss estimate.

*Let your insurance agent know where you will be if you must move into temporary quarters. If your policy coveres additional living expenses, keep a record of those expenses for your adjuster.

*If possible, be prepared to provide the adjuster with an inventory of damaged personal property -- furnishings, clothing, jewelry, etc.

IRS NEWS

Taxpayers seeking professional help in filing their 1969 Federal income tax returns should select only qualified and reputable advisors.

Taxpayers may delegate the work of preparing a return, but they are responsible for all entries and supporting documents, and for the full payment of additional tax, penalties, and interest, A. P. Andrews, administrative officer of Internal Revenue, Temple, said today.

While most tax practitioners are competent and honest, taxpayers were alerted to these potential danger signals:

Never sign a blank return and leave it with a stranger;

Do not sign a tax return prepared in pencil, since the return can be changed later;

Avoid the advisor who "guarantees" refunds, wants a percentage of the refund, or supposedly knows all the angles; and

Be on your guard if it is suggested that your refund check be mailed to the practitioner's address.

A professional advisor should sign the tax returns that he prepares on the line provided and you should record his name and address for future reference.

Nothing in this world sounds better to the eager ears of an outdoorsman than the instant purr of an outboard motor . . . . when it starts from the first push of the starter button, the first turn of the starter key, or the first pull of the starter cord.

Man, its a great feeling, especially if you have company along. They think you're the greatest host, just to step in the boat, turn on the ignition, and "away we go."

Many a motorist has talked to his motor in rather unclear language, simply because the outfit didn't fire when he said "go."

But he should have talked to himself—not to the motor. More than likely the trouble dated back to when he last had the rig out.

No experienced boatman will merely drive in from an outing, tie down, and go home. If he does, he's asking for trouble.

First thing the seasoned boatsman does when he comes to shore at the day's end is to drain the gas from the carburetor. This is done simply and easily. Merely disconnect the gas tank from the motor, then start up the motor again and keep it running until all the gas in the carburetor is used.

Experts in this field just disconnect the gas tank hose as they approach the dock and come on in under the power that is left in the carburetor. This way, besides saving a handful of gas, they also save time.

Experience will show you how far you can go with various size motors and various size boats before the carburetor runs dry. Naturally, the smaller the motor, the longer your gas supply lasts.

Unfortunately, many of us do not "get out to sea" every day or even every week. Some of us are lucky if we get away once a month. This means that the motor sits idly in the boat stall, or on the trailer, until you are able to "put in" again. Meanwhile, the gasolines does what comes naturally . . . . particularly that to which oil has been added. . . . conglomerates. This means that the tank as well as the carburetor becomes gummed up if the fluid is not used often. That's why most outdoorsmen, before they start up their outboard motor, will shake the little gas tank vigorously to distribute the oil evenly throughout the solution or at least get it off the bottom. Not to do so means that the gas being used will be lightly mixed with oil and, as the supply diminishes, the remaining fluid in the tank will be largely oil and, therefore, tend to gum up the motor rapidly.

Dear Friends
Below I'm giving you my little tribute to the old courthouse bell. Use it if you care to.
Your friend
Don L. Avriett

The old courthouse bell

The old courthouse bell is covered with rust
But "sturdy and staunch it now stands
Near the south east corner on the courthouse square,
But no more will we hear its voice from there.

For years it was housed in the courthouse steeple
Sounding the hours for all Cameron people,
Its voice being stilled for very short times
While sole custodian, Make ...nson, oiled its chimes.

You've earned your rest, old courthouse bell
Having served us faithfully - long and well
Tho your voice be now forever stilled, 'tis true
We're all glad we'll still be a seein you.

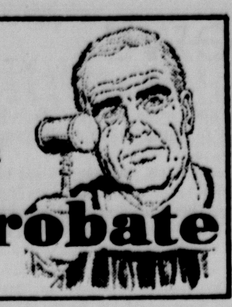
how to live - and die - with Texas Probate



By Charles A. Saunders, State Bar of Texas, for the Texas Press Association

This is a condensed version of one of 10 chapters of a 21-chapter book, "How To Live—and Die—With Texas Probate," copyrighted by the Gulf Publishing Company. These condensations in no way cover the whole volume, which can be purchased from your local bookstore or from Gulf Publishing Co., P. O. Box 2708, Houston 77001.

INTRODUCTION

The law of probate — the law dealing with passing of property from a person upon death to those he wants to get it — is centuries old, yet little understood. The purpose of probate, the people it protects and the advantages it offers ought to be understood by the man in the street, and with this understanding he should be moved to write a will and take advantage of probate's highest purposes, protections and advantages.

The lawyers of Texas want to make known to thoughtful Texans the basic ideas of probate and the importance of a properly drawn will.

TO ACCOMPLISH this they have written a book called "How To Live-and Die-With Texas Probate." It was written by 20 outstanding lawyers in 11 Texas cities. Money from the sale of the book is used for public education about the law.

Legal terms have been taken out and every-day language the reader is familiar with is used. The book points up the trouble poorly drawn wills can cause and stresses the importance of seeking the advice of the family lawyer about wills and their probate.

SHOULD I MAKE A WILL?

Wealthy people — people with property of $100,000 or more — usually have wills. Most of the people who die without a will have small estates. Yet, the saving of a dollar in a $10,000 estate means much more to the family than the saving of a dollar in a $1 million estate.

A will is a written instrument by which a person disposes of his property at his death. It can be changed during lifetime and conveys no property until the maker's death.

Every Texan of sound mind over 18 years old, or who is or was lawfully married, or is a member of the armed forces, can make a will. Texas law does not require that the property be left to anyone in particular.

TYPES OF WILLS

The most common will is the typewritten will. This will is written by someone else and signed by (or for) the maker. It must be witnessed by at least two persons over 14 years old who sign their names to the will in the presence of the person making the will. A witness must not receive anything under the will.

The other type of will used in Texas is one written wholly in the handwriting of the maker and signed by him. This will does not require witnesses. This type of will is not valid in some other states.

DYING WITHOUT A WILL

When a person dies without a will, the law determines who gets his property. The law also says who gets property left out of a will. The law, of course, cannot take into account the individual needs of the family members.

If a father owning only community property dies without a will, his wife inherits nothing from him. If her property is not sufficient to support her, she will have to find other means of support, even though the father's half of the community property is not needed for the support of the children who receive it.

GUARDIANSHIP—PENALTY OF DYING WITHOUT A WILL

When a parent dies leaving minor children, the problems are serious. Where a minor receives property through inheritance it is often necessary to have a guardian appointed to receive it. Insurance companies, the Social Security Administration, the Veterans Administration and others require a guardianship before they will pay funds to a minor.

Where a minor inherits land, title companies and lending agencies require a guardianship before the land can be sold.

The minor's property under a guardianship is subject to strict and costly court control. At age 21 or at marriage, the child gets his property whether or not he is mature enough to handle it.

One of the biggest advantages of making a will is the opportunity to provide for handling the minor's property without court supervision and costs. The will can direct how the money will be spent and when the child will receive it.

DYING WITHOUT A WILL— WHO HANDLES THE ESTATE

If the will does not name a person to handle the estate, Texas law provides a list of people with priorities from which the court will select. The duties of the person handling the estate are to locate all of the property; manage it; pay debts, taxes and costs, and distribute what is left according to the will or the law. By making a will the maker can choose the person he feels is best qualified to do the job.

WIFE SHOULD HAVE A WILL TOO

It is just as important for a wife to have a will as it is for the husband. Since most property owned by married people in Texas is community property, the wife usually owns half the family wealth.

Where there is no will, children inherit the mother's interest in property just as they do the father's. The father may suddenly find himself in partnership with small children with all the trouble and expense that brings. So, the husband's will alone does only half the job of planning for the family.

DIVORCE—ITS EFFECT ON A WILL

Divorce automatically eliminates the divorced spouse from the will.

Suppose a man makes a will leaving a portion of his estate to his wife. Then the man and wife are divorced, and the man dies before updating his will. The portion of the estate he provided for the wife will not go to her.

Instead, this portion will be distributed according to the laws of Texas and the remainder of the estate will go according to the will.

CHILDREN AND THE OUTDATED WILL

Texas law makes special (and complex) provisions for children born after a will is signed. Where no child was born before the will was made, a child born after the will can cause the will to be void for practical purposes and cause the estate to be thrown into a complicated court proceeding taking years to untangle.

SUMMARY

Each thoughtful man and woman owes a duty to his family to have a carefully prepared will in keeping with present family circumstances.

HOW TO GET A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

NEW YORK (ED)—With the whys and whats of sleep becoming a favorite study of research-minded scientists, it would seem that it would be easy enough to solve the problems of some eleven million insomniacs. Unfortunately, science can't help it if we're too wound up and just not tired enough, now that machines do our labor, to relax and get to sleep.

Since the urban world isn't going to get any easier on our nerves, courting sleep successfully has become a do-it-yourself project for the lie-awake-and-worriers. More often than not, a six-point program does the trick; it should work for you, too, unless there's something wrong with your health.

¶Forget about how hard it is for you to get to sleep. Worrying just drives sleep away.

¶Put your problems to bed before you. Don't use midnight to solve midday worries. Thrillers and cliff-hangers are sleep-chasers, so gear your late hour reading and televiewing accordingly.

¶Think dark. Eliminate all unnecessary light from your bedroom; use black or chocolate brown walls instead of white, and line your draperies with blackout fabric. Lite-trol lining is a new idea to prevent light leaks and keep you in the dark. Your neighborhood interior decorating critics will be in the dark, too; this one looks just like ordinary drapery lining.

¶Keep it quiet. Move your bedroom as far from street noises as you can. Use heavy, sound-absorbing fabrics instead of sound-reflecting, plastic-modern decor. Remember that glass has a high bounce-back factor, so if light isn't a factor, and you're not using the special blackout fabrics, back your draperies with Roc-lon insulated linings. If you need both, hang the blackout fabric closest to the window on a separate rod, and draw it back by day. Stop a disturbing snorer with a permanent prop-up on a slanted wedge pillow.

¶Cater to your crotchets. Charles Dickens could only sleep facing north, so he always carried a compass; if you're happier with your head facing the door, face that way. If silk sheets are your style, silk sheets are it. If you're happier, and your schedule permits, sleep from 3 a.m. to noon; there's no law that you have to go to bed at midnight.

New Americans

Emerson wrote "The true test of a civilization is, not the census nor the size of cities, nor the crops - no, but the kind of man the country turns out."

Yoe High juniors rated present civilization in essays that give some insight into the restlessness and quest for change being expressed by their generation.

By John Ben Sutter

American civilization is at present undergoing a radical change which could prove to be a deciding factor in its future survival. This change is due to the further liberalization of American society.

Some fear that the liberalization, liberalization in all fields - science, government, finance, morality - will soon get out of hand, and that before it is eventually checked, it will have destroyed the nation.

Changes, new concepts and ideas, new products and systems are always labeled "progress" and are too often accepted before proper preliminary investigation and evaluation. Thusly, the snowball continues to build as it rolls down the hill.

Man, of course, must constantly try to improve his situation by change and new methods of thinking. Man and civilization can easily be stifled by conservatism and consistency.

But a reckless rush for a utopia could prove diastrous to utopia could prove disastrous to our civilization.

According to Emerson, the true test of a nation is not the size of its population nor its gross national product, "but the kind of man the country turns out." Throughout his history, the American man has characterized himself as a fair judge - balancing good and evil on his scales of right and wrong. All Americans still possess this ability to a degree.

The American has also been a rational planner, considering all the possible aspects of a plan before accepting and putting it into action.

But today we are being faced increasingly with a new breed of American, a product of an era of financial security, and emotional insecurity produced by the cold war possibility of nuclear annihilation.

The new breed of Americans emphasizes the rights of man, but often for only the individuals they consider worthy of their rights.

Patience is not one of their attributes. They feel that their ideas and dreams must be put into effect immediately, occasionally disregarding all other previously instituted channels. If change is their goal, it must take place immediately, even though it is known that effective change takes time.

Many of these 'New Americans' espouse and participate in groups and causes familiar to the American scene today.

Resigning from society in order to seek its own deeper meaning in life, the 'hippie' movement has enlarged within recent years. Degenerating and losing its original purpose, the movement now serves merely as a communial gathering of people interested in practicing free sex and warping their minds with illegal drugs.

This last item, mind-bending drug use was first popularized by the Hippies. Today illegal drug use has reached alarming proportions, and even more frightening is the fact that the use is centered with our nation's youth.

He calls for its immediate end on the grounds that it is considered and immoral war. Whether marching in demonstration or burning his draft card in protest, he demands immediate withdrawl, without considering the fatal consequences for thousands of innocent Vietnamese.

The New American thought is evidenced in the professions. In finance, inflation is a major problem. This problem is due to all too liberal spending. Science is now trying it's hand at playing God by experimenting with artificial human birth and heredity.

Although the New American is characteristically impatient and rash, he does exhibit qualities which have faded in American civilization.

This New American openly expresses his individuality in an age where the individual human being has been transformed into a number on a computer punch car. He tends to reject materialism in order to search for his true inner self.

While his impatience and rashness now overshadows his good qualities, the New American may soon gain his much needed maturity in order the renew the American Civilization with a breath of revitalization.
